Course Introduction	Globalization is a hotly contested term with multiple levels of interpretation depending on the context and content used by any particular group or party. Therefore this course will be investigating the different elements which crop up when debating what globalisation is. this class will also be looking at the term globalisation from different perspectives as well. What someone would term as as being globalisation could be 'clash of civilisations' instead. Thus this course will not only teach students the ability to analyse the term but also to look at it from multiple angles.
